He said he sources of divine authority in his celebrated inaugural address. He said he recognized that the Scrintures are really the greatest authority of the Christian religion. He thought, however, the authors of the Westminster confession had not sufficiently recognized that the logos was the light of the world, as taught in the prologue of John's gospel. If the Presbyterian doctrines, as taught by Westminster divines, were alone accepted and better believed were more liberal than the modern Presbyterian church reflected, then must soldiers of the Salvation army, members of the Salvation army, members of the Baptists be considered eternally lost. He, for one, was not willing nally lost. He, for one, was not willing to subscribe to any such barbarity.

As the Pharisees of old were rebuked by Christ for maintaining that they alone possessed all goodness so now should these modern Pharisees of the Crescent mine, takes so now should these modern Pharisees of the Presbyterian church be rebuked for their narrow belief. Reason, said Briggs, is acknowledged as the greatest endowment God has given us. It is the boly of holies, of human nature, the presence chamber of God within the soni, into which the divine spirit enters when he would tafluence may and in which cur Sayer dwells.

Speaking of the Salvation army Briggs said it is significant that right at the close of our century we have a great organization outside the church, without ministry or sucraments, which seeks above all things the salvation of the lost, and endoavors to impart full salvation to all trapple. The representation of the representation of the lost, and endoavors to impart full salvation to all trapple.
